FOR THE THIRD MILLENIUM

THE INTERNATIONAL HARP THERAPY PROGRAMME

CHRISTINA TOURIN. DIRECTOR

NOW IN THE UK AND EUROPE: NETHERLANDS

UK LEVEL ONE COURSE OCTOBER 28th – NOVEMBER 2nd 2016

Team IHTP Europe Welcomes You!

Are you interested in learning the art of harp playing to illuminate and relax yourself and others?

- How do you improvise?
- How can you work with sympathetic resonance?
- How can the harp therapeutically help during recovery or difficult phases in life?
- How do you create a method to make contact/connect using the harp, with people who may have difficulty communicating?
- How can you work in a group situation with the harp?
- How can you inspire another person to play the harp, even if they might have disabilities?

The International Harp Therapy Programme leads you step by step to become a Therapeutic Harp Practitioner.

You will learn

- About musical intervals and modes which will help you with improvisation
- How to communicate therapeutically and to listen empathically
- About Neuro Linguistic Programming (NLP) and Transactional Analysis (TA)
- The requirements for working in a hospital and hospice
- The importance of correct posture using the Alexander Technique
- The basics of anatomy, in particular about how sound and vibration affect the body

What is 'Harp Therapy' is, its objectives and benefits

- How 'sympathetic resonance' works for the relief and comfort of others
- How to interact with the harp with the opportunity to experience many harp playing/sharing opportunities
- To develop your own musical skills
- How sound and vibration impacts on our emotional, physical and spiritual bodies

The International Harp Therapy Programme offers you:

- A powerful and inspiring course, offered in the US since 1990
- Accreditation from the National Standards Board for Therapeutic Musicians
- Experienced teachers who will guide you through the diverse modules
- Experienced mentors who will guide and support you with your course work assignments
- Help with starting as a therapeutic professional
- The skills and confidence to reach people at a deeper level through your harp playing
- A unique and powerful personal development opportunity
- The choice to study either in person or via our home-study option
